

A black and white photograph of a group of approximately 18 Chinese officials, likely members of the Qing Dynasty, standing in two rows in front of a traditional building. They are wearing dark, heavy robes and black hats, with some having long beards. The building behind them has a lattice-patterned door and windows, and a lantern is visible on the right.